GENERAL SITUATION

Humid and unstable southwesterly currents are affecting northern Italy. On Tuesday morning, the front will cross the Alps from the north and will be followed by drier and cooler air currents.

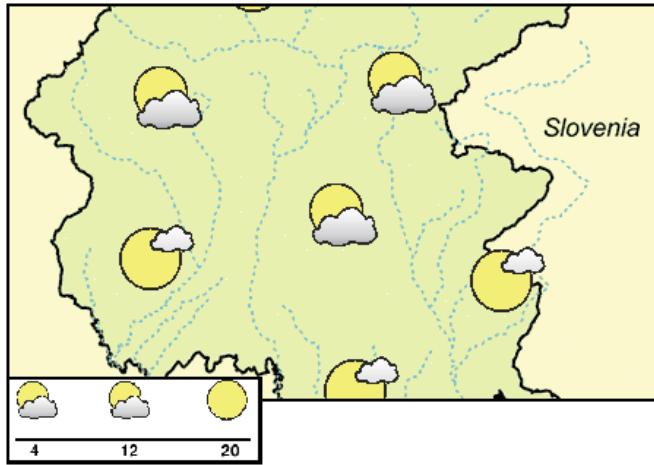

TUESDAY, 12 May 2026

Reliability 70%

During the night and until late morning in the west, and early afternoon in the east, skies will be overcast with likely showers and thunderstorms, with rainfall that could be locally intense. Conditions will then improve from the north with clear or partly cloudy skies. From the morning onward, strong northerly winds with possible stronger gusts.
